We Were Wrong . . .

. . . WHEN WE CALLED the previous issue of the Review the 7th issue in the opening editorial. We had mistakenly counted the 1960 Directory of Members as an issue; actually, it was a separately printed supplement to Volume II Number 2. The seventh issue is the one you are reading.

For financial reasons we did not expect to publish a fourth issue in 1961, but we did plan to publish a membership directory. The idea of making the directory the final issue this year occurred somewhere along the line. It seemed appropriate because there was some other sm organizational material—notably the amended Constitution & By-Laws—that had to be published and could be combined with the directory to make a handy reference volume.

The procedure does not set a precedent that will necessarily be followed again. Indeed, the whole directory question is at a stage, as the Executive Secretary makes clear in his communiqué in later pages, where it needs some membership decisions—thumbs up or thumbs down or thumbs sideways. Including your thumb.

Metaphoric Astronauts

PERSONALLY WE HAVE ALWAYS considered the directory a valuable and essential document, and certainly the current issue is impressive. No one could leaf through this list of 1785 members, now working in 82 countries and 43 states of the USA and associated with over 600 very diverse organization (not to mention 87 members who are independent or retired and 153 who are students—plus 212 widely scattered library subscribers), without realizing that the Society for International Development, though young, already encompasses an extraordinary wealth of talent, knowledge, and experience and includes a goodly share of those “dreamers of dreams” who, to borrow Arthur O'Shaughnessy's characterization of poets, are “the movers and shakers of the world.” We would liken them to astronauts, only they are not a score but thousands; not starsailors but earthsailors; and the realms they open up not in remote stellar regions but here on our own thick-peopled planet—new realms of mind and spirit for many millions of human beings, living and to come.

Be all that as it may, we should not personally wish to have a directory even of metaphoric astronauts replace other editorial content except under such exigencies as now dictate. But if the Review were to be published bi-monthly (purely wishful thinking) instead of quarterly, a membership directory might regularly be one of the six issues.

Candor on Quarterliness

OF COURSE we have not hitherto been able to publish quarterly, though that was the original intent. Marion Clawson, as you will observe elsewhere, believes this will be possible beginning in 1962, on a 32-page-per-issue basis. If he is right, we shall aim for March-June-September-December publication dates.

We keep our fingers crossed, however, and at three o'clock in the morning, if we happen to be awake then, we are apt to be especially pessimistic. (When we once lay near death for many days—“flirting with angels” was the doctor's euphemism—the low ebb in the diurnal life-tide came at that time.)

Candor compels the comment that we do not relish a rigid 32-page limitation. We have a strong appetite for plenty of good stuff (numerous we mean, not lengthy), which implies a reasonably flexible space to put it in. This too, we have learned, is wishful thinking, even in the space age. The flickering small hope we once nursed for a little financial support has long since flickered out. (In saying this we do not mean to belittle the welcome contributions of our institutional members.) As far as any substantial help from a foundation is concerned, we have come to realize that the editor who, unattached to some preexisting organization, ventures a new international journal might well tack Dante's warning, “Lasciate ogni speranza voi ch'entrate,” over his office door, if you don't mind sharing our darker thoughts—Questi pensieri di colore oscuro, to misquote the Inferno's next line. We must be getting old. The daring old man on the flying trapeze is about the way we feel. Probably many people do nowadays.

Another comment. Achieving quarterliness depends on authors as well as editor. We shall need a steady inflow of good and suitable stuff sufficient to fill four issues a year, with a margin for selection. If in our judgment we do not have enough good suitable material when the quarterly bell tolls, we shall not issue the issue even though this transgresses quarterliness. (It would especially pain our library friends, who rightly value regularity. Conversely, some authors may be pained when the spatial squeeze extrudes them.)

Our readers have been generous in sharing their wealth of talent, knowledge, and experience with us in articles submitted and proposed. We trust they will continue to be not less generous. If the International Development Review has merit and significance, the credit is theirs, the benefit mutual.

How much credit they deserve you can see by glancing at the index of the first three volumes of the Review, included in this issue.

Our regret is that circumstance and our own shortcomings inhibited greater achievement. Perhaps the record is not too bad, but we wanted to do much more.

It is time now to sign off. ☞

Questions for all Members

DO YOU WANT an annual directory of SID members?

Do you use the directory?

If so, how?

Do you need a directory with the present fourfold breakdown—alphabetical, numerical, geographical, organizational?

Assuming that you want a directory of some kind, would it be sufficient to have merely an alphabetical listing?

These are questions that concern the officers of the Society. Your views are sought. Please write us.

A directory such as this is costly. The printing cost is the least part of the total. The real cost is the necessity of keeping membership records that yield the necessary information. In a letter to all SID members in Volume II Number 1 (May 1960) I described how our membership record system is based on addressograph plates that include members' names, organizations, and addresses. Four separate card files are maintained, for alphabetical, numerical, geographical, and organizational groupings. As long as our membership is no larger than at present, this is the most efficient means of obtaining the information contained in the present directory. Some day, when we have many more members, it will doubtless pay to use a punch-card record system. But no matter what the system, it costs money (and much time and trouble) to keep records geographically and organizationally.

We have assumed that SID members find such information useful. If you do not, please tell us so we can modify our records to provide no more information than members actually need.

Also, let me emphasize again that the directory is necessarily based on information that members submit to this office. We cannot follow up each member asking if our present data about him is correct. In compiling this directory, we saw some obvious errors in our records and did telephone a few persons who were easily available. But this is a more time-consuming process than we can undertake normally, and in any event it reaches only those about whom we happen to know and who are close at hand. I ask each member to check his listing in this directory and advise us if there is an error. The alphabetical listing is essentially the same as the address to which we have mailed the directory, and to which we recently mailed you the ballot for 1962 elections and the notice about your 1962 dues. If the address is wrong, subsequent issues of the Review may well fail to reach you, to our mutual loss.

SID members move about a great deal because of the nature of their professions. No small part of our office work consists of changing their addresses. In many instances, however, a member sends us a change of address without indicating whether he has changed organizational connection. Sometimes we think he has not and continue to list the old organization—but we may be wrong. Sometimes we are sure he has left the old organization—but we have no hint as to the new one. Most often we have nothing on which to base a guess either way. Please, therefore, when writing us about a change in address, tell us about your organizational connection so that our records may be accurate.

And I repeat—let us know what kind of directory you want, if any.

MARION CLAWSON
EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

THE SOCIETY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

is an international, nonprofit, educational and scientific organization founded 19 October 1957 and incorporated in the District of Columbia, USA.

Its purpose: to provide means for and stimulate exchange of ideas, facts, and experience in the pioneering field of international development, now global in scope and fundamental, at this juncture in history, to progress and peace.

The membership of the society consists in the main of persons engaged in or associated with programs of international development—administrators, economists, engineers, educators, health officers, lawyers, technicians, and others. They include many nationalities and professions and work in many kinds of organizations, public and private, national and international, in more than 80 countries. The membership likewise includes persons who are seriously interested, though not currently participating, in development programs. Organizations also may join SID as institutional members, with all membership privileges except the right to vote.

Currently SID uses three principal means to advance and circulate knowledge and generate ideas in its very diverse fields of interest: the publication of a professional journal, the International Development Review; the annual membership meetings, each an international forum dealing with a particular cluster of important problems; and chapter activities, developed by local groups of members to suit their own professional bent and the special situation and needs in the area or country where they work.

All rights, including translation into other languages, reserved by the society in the United States, Great Britain, Mexico, and all countries participating in the International Copyright Convention and the Pan-American Copyright Convention.

The Society for International Development welcomes the expression of divergent and even contradictory views in the International Development Review, believing that this best serves the needs of its members. The fact that an article appears in the Review does not mean that it represents the views of the society, nor does the society accept responsibility for the views expressed in any article, signed or unsigned.

Articles, notices, announcements, news items, and other material submitted to the International Development Review should be typewritten, double spaced, and addressed to the Editor. Return postage (US stamps) should be included if the material is to be returned and if it was mailed with US postage originally. The Review is not yet financially able to pay for articles or other material. Because of staff limitations, it would be advisable to write the Editor in advance before submitting an article, to determine whether the Review would be interested in seeing it.

SID PROGRESS, PROBLEMS, PROSPECTS

Report by the Executive Secretary

THIS REPORT, like each of my preceding ones, can be summarized in a single sentence: sid has made and is making wonderful progress, but it still faces difficult problems, on which the help of all members is sought.

Let us look first at the progress. Perhaps the best measure of an organization's progress is its membership. We have had the following record of membership growth:

October 19, 1957—Organizing Conference, when sid was born	60 members
June 20, 1958—List of members (processed)	248 members
January 12, 1959—Directory (processed)	424 members
September 1, 1959—Directory printed in IDR Vol. I No. 1	619 members
September 1, 1960—Directory printed as Supplement to IDR II 2	1,122 members
December 1, 1961—This Directory—IDR III 4	1,800 members

On each of the dates given, these are net membership numbers. A few members resigned, a few have died, and we have reluctantly dropped some who have been seriously in arrears in payment of dues. The number at each date includes institutional members, of which we now have 33. Note that from September 1959 to September 1960 we gained about 500 members, and during the succeeding 12 months we also gained about 500. In addition to members, we had 93 library subscribers listed in the directory for September 1960, and 212 are listed in the present directory.

In my judgment, this growth in membership clearly indicates the need for and value of sid. It has been very heartening to those of us who are trying to manage the society's affairs.

An organization such as sid must have some modest revenues in order to meet necessary expenses. In trying to meet costs of necessary services from inadequate revenue, we may get overly concerned with the financial record. Certainly the society does not exist for pecuniary reasons. Yet any significant program does cost money; and our capacity to do worth-while things is limited at least in part by the money available to us. In the financial field, sid has also made some progress in recent years. Our record is as follows:

1960	11,391	12,136

This record is also heartening. It shows major progress. But let us also look at what it costs to operate sid. The cost for printing and layout of a 32-page issue of the Review, such as Volume II Number 3 (October 1961), is close to $2,500. Thus, four issues a year of this size cost about $10,000. The cost of mailing such an issue (envelopes for foreign mail, total postage) is about $350, or $1,400 annually for four issues. The minimum cost for the executive secretary's office (postage, stationery, supplies, and miscellaneous items, but excluding secretarial help) is $1,800, based upon experience over the past two years. The minimum cost for the editor's office, based on the same experience, is $2,000 annually—and this assumes that the editor contributes his services, does his own typing and filing, and does not pay for articles accepted from authors. The office rent for very modest quarters is $1,800 annually; a part-time office secretary, largely concerned with membership records and correspondence, and occasional extra help for peak jobs cost $3,200 annually. The total of all expenses is $20,200 annually.

In my judgment, based on our experience, this is the absolute minimum for which sid can be operated, including publishing four issues of the Review of modest size annually. Moreover, this is a highly unrealistic figure in many respects—it is possible only because the editor, the executive secretary, and other officers donate substantial amounts of time to sid. It is doubtful if we can hope to operate this way indefinitely.

It is wholly possible to obtain receipts as large as or larger than the minimum operating costs for 1962—assuming major continued efforts at membership recruitment. We have estimated that new memberships (including new institutional memberships) will bring in $5,800 in 1962; that membership renewals (including institutional members) will bring in $11,000; that subscriptions to the Review and sale of advertising will bring in $3,000; and that miscellaneous sources (including the annual conference net receipts) will bring in $300. We have a commitment for 1962 of $5,000 on our grant from Resources for the Future. These sums total $25,100. We shall start the year roughly $2,000 in debt to our printer. We hope and believe that during 1962 we can carry out a program of publishing four Review issues, get out of debt, and start the next year with a modest bank balance.

THIS HOPEFUL OUTLOOK will not be realized automatically or easily. It assumes at least 700 new individual members and about 10 new institutional members during the year; we shall have to work to attain this growth. It also assumes that present members will continue to support sid by prompt payment of dues.

For the longer run, the financial outlook has several serious aspects. The present grant from Resources for the Future does not extend beyond 1962, and that organization has made it clear we cannot expect additional grants from it. It is my judgment that we cannot expect grants for general organizational support, on a continuing basis, from foundations. We may get some limited help of this kind, especially to get started, but even this is not assured. We may some day get grants for special projects, although this is by no means certain. In 1963, therefore, sid must assume, out of membership dues and other revenues, the costs of office space and help now born out of grant funds. Moreover, as noted above, it is doubtful if we can continue indefinitely to operate with large-scale donations of free time by major officers. To paraphrase a famous expression, the supply of dedicated members willing to give large amounts of time free is running out.

The only solution, in my judgment, is a major increase in SID membership. Operation of an organization such as SID, including publication of a journal, is a prime case of economies of scale. It costs far less than twice as much to operate with twice as many members, and far less than four times as much to operate with four times as many members. Postage, labor on membership records, and some other cost items increase proportionately with membership numbers; but printing and other major cost items rise very little with greatly increased membership. If the society had 5,000 members, including 100 institutional members, and 700 library subscribers, plus some modest advertising in the Review, its gross annual revenues would be $50,000 or more. This would permit publishing annually four larger issues of the Review (48 or 64 pages) or six issues of the present length, plus some modest payments to an editor and an executive secretary, plus carrying all other necessary operation expenses. This would give us a sound financial base for our present scale of program, and from this the society might well grow into other areas of activity.

From my point of view, an increase in membership of this order is highly desirable, wholly apart from financial considerations. A major objective of the society is to serve as an intellectual and professional bridge among persons concerned with international development all over the world. The total number of potential members around the world must run into many thousands; to aim at 5,000 of them in SID within the next 5 years is not unrealistic. But the society must be brought to the attention of prospective members and their interest must be aroused. We must also develop significant local or chapter activities, to provide participation by a large proportion of our members.

Each member of the society can help on these fronts. If each member recruited one new member, we would obviously thereby double our membership. Some of our members have been remarkably effective in getting new members. Will you please help? Each issue of the Review includes a membership application blank; or any piece of paper containing the necessary information is acceptable. If you live where there is no chapter of SID, how about helping to promote one? If you need help, materials, or suggestions, write to me.

I should like to point out again, as I did in IDR III 1 (February 1961), that from time to time we are able to persuade organizations to mail significant reports in the international field to SID members, either free or by payment of mailing costs. Some material was sent out by the Committee for Economic Development on this basis; the Ford Foundation's report (The Apprentice Experts), the report titled The University and World Affairs, and other documents have been sent to all or to part of our membership during 1961. We try to be alert to opportunities of this kind; we appreciate having them called to our attention by members.

SID Legal Documents

EDITOR'S NOTE: IDR II 2 (June 1961) included an explanation by the General Counsel of the purpose and nature of amendments made in 1961 to the Constitution & By-Laws and the Certificate of Incorporation of SID. The amended texts of these documents follow. The original forms were printed in IDR I 1 (October 1959). Anyone interested in further details regarding the amendments should write to Philip M. Glick, General Counsel, 1725 K Street, NW, Washington 6, DC, USA.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

PREAMBLE

Science, the advance in man's knowledge of nature, by bringing man to the age of nuclear power and space conquest, has given international peace the new meaning of a condition essential for the continuance of mankind.

By discovering new resources, inventing new products, devising new ways of production, and achieving new mastery over life and death, it enables more human beings to reach higher levels of well-being than ever before.

By stretching a web of instant communication over the earth, it has opened men's eyes to new opportunities and stirred fresh aspiration for a better life.

To fulfill this aspiration and make these opportunities real in a manner consistent with the growth of individual freedom is a major part of the dynamics of peace, requiring widespread international cooperation for technical development and economic advance.

That cooperation now engages large resources and the efforts of great numbers of individuals and organizations, public and private, throughout the world.

To promote greater effectiveness and better understanding among all those concerned in this work, which we believe will profoundly influence the future of our civilization, we, the charter members, have established the present Society.

NAME AND PURPOSES

Sec. 1. Name. This Society shall be known as the Society for International Development.

Sec. 2. Purposes. The purposes of the Society are:

1. To facilitate the national and international exchange of knowledge and experience concerning social and economic development and technical cooperation;
2. To advance the science, processes and art of social and economic development and technical cooperation through educational means exclusively, namely, through research, publication and discussion.
3. To promote international understanding and international cooperation for social and economic development.

Sec. 3. Incorporation. The Society was incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia on January 29, 1958, as an organization operated, not for profit, but exclusively for educational and scientific purposes. The Society will not carry on propaganda, or otherwise attempt, to influence legislation. It will not participate in any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office and it will not support any political party. These self-denying ordinances are equally binding upon the Society and upon all its Chapters in whatever country they may be organized.

Sec. 4. Activities. (a) The Society will promote its purposes through meetings of its members for the interchange of knowledge and experience; through the activities of local Chapters; through the publication of a Journal and News-letters; through other research and publication; through workshops and conferences; and through such further means as the Membership or the Council may authorize.

(b) The Society shall not conduct any of the activities of a business league, or of any of the other types of organizations listed in Section 501 (c) (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, and shall not seek to promote or improve the business or economic status of any of its members or of any profession to which any of its members may belong.

(c) The Society shall conduct its activities and undertake to achieve its purposes only by the ways and means permitted to an organization that is formed for educational and scientific purposes within the meaning of Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. The Society shall not engage in any activity which would, under the provisions of Sections 502, 503 or 504 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, preclude its being eligible for tax exemption under the provisions of Section 501 (c) (3) of that Code.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision in the foregoing paragraphs which may be construed to the contrary, this organization shall not engage in any activity other than those necessary to carry out its purposes in a manner consistent with the requirements of Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and other related sections of the law.

(e) Publications of the Society shall be made available for distribution to members and the general public, including schools and libraries, on a non-profit basis.

THE MEMBERS

Sec. 5. Authority. The highest authority for deciding the policies and managing the affairs of the Society is the Membership duly assembled in the Annual Conference, or in a Special Conference duly called. The Membership interprets and amends the Constitution, elects the elective officers, resolves policy questions brought to it, and may confirm, revise, or repeal the action of the Council, the Executive Committee or any officer.

Sec. 6. Eligibility. Any person who is professionally employed, or otherwise interested, in international economic development and technical cooperation, and who wishes to further the purposes of the Society, shall be eligible for membership. An institution or organization shall be eligible, as such, for membership, but the right to vote provided herein for members may be exercised only by individual members.

Sec. 7. Classes. The membership of the Society shall be divided into three classes: members, sustaining members, and student members. Persons in attendance at a college or university, matriculated for a degree or as special students, and devoting the major part of their time to study, shall be classified as student members. The members in all classes shall have the same rights and privileges, subject to the exception with reference to voting rights stated in Section 6.

Sec. 8. Charter Members. All members of the Conference to Organize a Society for Economic Development and Technical Cooperation, held at the Brookings Institution, in Washington, D. C. on October 19, 1957 who so elect; all persons who become advance members of the Society on invitation of the Interim Commission; all persons who become members at the first Conference of the Members of the Society; and all those who become members within six months after that first Conference shall be deemed to be Charter Members of the Society.

Sec. 9. Dues. The Council shall have power, by regulation, to establish, and to revise from time to time, the dues to be paid by each class of members. Until the Council shall otherwise provide, the annual dues of members shall be as follows: sustaining members $25 or more; members whose legal residence is in the United States of America or Canada, $10; members employed by the United Nations or the Specialized Agencies, $10; members residing in the United Kingdom, Western Europe, Australia or New Zealand, $6; members residing in any other country $3; student members, $3. Libraries, universities and other institutions may subscribe to the Journal of the Society, without becoming members, by paying $7.50 per year or such other subscription price as the Council may establish.

Sec. 10. Honorary Sponsors; Patrons. The Council may designate, with their consent, distinguished persons associated with international technical and economic cooperation as Honorary Sponsors of the Society. Any individual or organization which shall contribute $1,000 or more to the Society for the advancement of its purposes shall be deemed to be a Patron of the Society, and shall be listed as such in the records of the Society.

Sec. 11. Rights. All members shall have the right to attend the meetings of the Society, to vote (except as stated in Section 6), to hold office, to receive the Journal and other regular publications of the Society and to participate in its activities.

Sec. 12. Delinquency; Expulsion. After due notice, any member delinquent in dues for more than 6 months shall be dropped from membership. The Council may expel any member when it deems such action to be in the best interest of the Society.

THE COUNCIL

Sec. 13. Membership. The governing body of the Society shall be the Council, which shall consist of the President, the Vice President, the Regional Vice Presidents, the three most recent past presidents who are still members, and fifteen members elected by the Membership. The persons elected as the first members of the Council in the first meeting of the Incorporators of the Society shall serve as the full Council until the first Annual Conference of the Members. At the first Annual Conference of the Members, five members shall be elected to the Council for a term of three years, five for a term of two years, and five for a term of one year. Following the expiration of such first terms, the terms of all Council members shall be three years and until their successors are elected and take office. The President shall fill by appointment any vacancy in the Council caused by death, resignation or other inability to serve. The President of each local Chapter of the Society shall serve ex officio as a member of the Council.

Sec. 14. Powers. The Council shall be vested with the management of the affairs of the Society and shall act in the capacity of a board of directors. The Council shall adopt such regulations as may be appropriate for the governance of the Society. It shall have the power to approve proposed budgets, authorize expenditures, seek and accept contributions, authorize contracts in the name of the Society, define and promote the activities of the Society, determine the eligibility of applicants for membership, authorize the employment of auditors, provide for the business and conduct of Annual and Special Conferences, and provide for the distribution of the Society's Journal and other publications. It may delegate powers and duties to officers and employees of the Society. The President of the Society shall be the chairman of the Council. In the absence of both the President and the Vice President, the Council may elect a temporary chairman. The Executive Secretary of the Society shall be the Executive Secretary of the Council. Meetings of the Council shall be called by the President, or upon the written request of five members of the Council.

Sec. 15. Executive Committee. An Executive Committee, which shall consist of the President, the Vice President, the most recent past President, the Editor of the Journal, the General Counsel, the Executive Secretary, the Treasurer, and two members of the Council appointed by the President with the approval of the Council, shall have the power to exercise all the functions of the Council between Annual Conferences of the Society and when the Council is not in session. The Executive Committee shall meet on the call of the President. All actions taken by the Executive Committee shall be reported promptly to the members of the Council.

Sec. 16. Committees. The Council shall establish and define the functions, and may at any time modify the number and functions, of all other committees, which shall be deemed to be committees of both the Council and the Society. Membership in the Council shall not be a prerequisite for membership in any committee, but each committee shall include at least one member of the Council.

Sec. 17. Officers. The officers of the Society shall be a President, a Vice President, an Executive Secretary, a Treasurer, an Editor of the Journal and a General Counsel. The Council, in the interest of providing suitable geographic representation, may provide in its discretion for the election of Regional Vice Presidents. The President, the Vice President and the Regional Vice Presidents shall be elected by the members of the Society, for a term of one year and until their successors are elected and take office, but the President shall not be eligible for more than three consecutive annual terms. The Executive Secretary, the Treasurer, the Editor of the Journal and the General Counsel shall be appointed by the President with the approval of the Council, and shall serve at the pleasure of the Council. The same person may hold more than one of the appointive offices. Until the first Annual Conference of the Members the persons elected to serve as President, Executive Secretary and Treasurer at the first meeting of the Council of the Society may continue to serve in those offices and the Council may appoint the other appointive officers. The officers shall perform the functions customarily performed by holders of their respective offices and such other functions as the Council may assign to them.

Sec. 18. Editorial Board. The President, after each Annual Conference, after consulting with the Editor of the Journal, shall appoint seven members of the Society who shall serve with the Editor as the Editorial Board of the Society's Journal and such Editorial Consultants as may be deemed desirable. At least two of the members of the Editorial Board shall be replaced by new members in every year.

Sec. 19. Location of Offices. The Society may establish such offices, in such locations, as the Council shall determine. The resident office of the Society in the District of Columbia for legal purposes, until otherwise determined by the Council, shall be at the office of its General Counsel, and legal process against the Society may be served on its General Counsel.

NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS

Sec. 20. Nominating Committee. After each Annual Conference the President shall appoint, with due regard to geographic distribution and the Society's fields of professional interest, a Nominating Committee of not less than five members, and shall designate the chairman. The Committee may canvass the membership for suggested nominations and shall submit at least one nomination for each elective office to be filled, including the elective members of the Council.

Sec. 21. Voting. The elective officers shall be elected by mail ballot under such procedures as the Council shall from time to time provide. All members of the Society other than institutional members shall be entitled to vote. The nominee receiving the highest number of votes for each office shall be declared elected.

QUORUM

Sec. 22. Quorum. Seven members of the Council, three members of the Executive Committee, and forty members of the Society shall respectively constitute a quorum. All actions shall be by a majority vote of the members present.

CHAPTERS

Sec. 23. Policy. It is the policy of the Society to encourage and recognize the establishment of local chapters of its members.

Sec. 24. Council Powers. The Council shall have authority to control the establishment, guidance and termination of local chapters, and may establish regulations for this purpose. The provisions of the Certificate of Incorporation and of this Constitution shall be equally binding upon the Society and all its Chapters. No Chapter, Council member, officer, or member of the Society shall speak or write in the name of the Society or on its behalf without authorization to do so given by the Council or by the President.

MEETINGS

Sec. 25. Of the Members. The Annual Conference of members shall be held at a time and place designated by the Council. The President or the Council may call Special Conferences of the members.

Sec. 26. Other Meetings. Meetings of the Council or Executive Committee shall be held upon written or printed notice to be mailed not less than 5 nor more than 40 days before the date of the meeting, unless the Council shall otherwise provide. Meetings shall be at the call of the President, or of any five members of the Council, or of three members of the Executive Committee. Other committees shall determine their own dates and procedures for meetings. The President shall have authority to call a meeting of the Executive Committee upon shorter notice, to be given orally or in writing, when he deems that necessary.

Sec. 27. Waiver of Notice. Any person entitled to vote at any meeting of members, or of the Council, or of the Executive Committee, may waive notice of the time, place, and purpose of such meeting either before or after the date of such meeting, and any action taken thereat shall, upon such waiver, be as valid as though notice had been given.

Sec. 28. Action without Meeting. Any action which might be taken at any meeting of the members, Executive Committee, or Council shall be valid without a meeting, if a written memorandum of such action is duly served upon all persons entitled to vote thereon in the manner prescribed for notice of a meeting, and if such action is approved in writing by a majority of the persons voting thereon, unless otherwise prescribed by law.

AMENDMENTS

Sec. 29. Procedure. This Constitution and By-Laws shall go into effect when adopted by the vote of three-fourths of the members of the first Council. It may be amended by a majority vote of the members present and voting at any Annual Conference of the membership, provided the proposed amendment or amendments have been approved by the Council, or have been submitted to the Executive Secretary by petition of 25 or more members at least 30 days prior to the Annual Conference at which they are to be voted upon.

Sec. 30. Dissolution. When the Society shall determine to terminate its activities and dissolve the Society, all the assets and property of the Society, without exception, shall be transferred by the Society to an organization to be selected by the Society, whose purposes are the same as or similar to the purposes stated in this Constitution, and whose activities are the same as or similar to the activities authorized by this Constitution, and which has obtained from the Internal Revenue Service of the Government of the United States a ruling, then effective and in good standing, that it is entitled to tax exemption under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 as an organization that is organized and operated exclusively for educational or scientific purposes, or both, and which shall undertake to use such transferred assets and property for such purposes. In no event shall any part of the assets or property of the Society, upon dissolution, be transferred or made available for the benefit of any private individual, firm or corporation. ❧

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, all citizens of the United States and a majority citizens and residents of the District of Columbia, of full age, desiring to associate ourselves as a corporation, for educational and scientific purposes, pursuant to the provisions of Title 29, Chapter 6 of the District of Columbia Code (1951), do hereby certify as follows:

First: The name by which this corporation shall be known in law shall be

SOCIETY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Second: The term for which it is organized shall be perpetual.

Third: The particular business and objects of the Society are as follows:

1. To facilitate the national and international exchange of knowledge and experience concerning economic development and technical cooperation;

2. To advance the science, processes and art of economic development and technical cooperation through educational means exclusively, namely, through research, publication and discussion.

Fourth: Management of the affairs of the Society, including the power to adopt and amend appropriate by-laws, shall be vested in a governing council, to be known as the Council. The number of members of the Council shall be stated in the by-laws, except that for the first Council elected by the incorporators the number shall be seven.

Fifth: This corporation is organized, and shall be operated, not for profit, but exclusively for the educational and scientific purposes stated in this Certificate. No part of the receipts of the Society shall inure to the benefit of any individual, firm or corporation, except for actual services rendered or legitimate expenses incurred on behalf of the Society. The Society shall not carry on propaganda, or otherwise attempt, to influence legislation; and shall not participate in, or intervene in, any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office.

Sixth: The arrangements to govern eligibility for membership, the classes and fees of membership, the establishment, guidance and termination of local chapters, and all other matters of internal administration shall be those that are provided in the by-laws. The by-laws of this Society may carry the designation "Constitution and By-laws."

Seventh: Publications of the Society shall be made available for distribution to members and the general public, including schools and libraries, on a non-profit basis.

Eighth: The Society shall not conduct any of the activities of a business league, or of any of the other types of organizations listed in the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, and shall not seek to promote or improve the business or economic status of any of its members or of any profession to which any of its members may belong.

Ninth: The Society shall conduct its activities and undertake to achieve its purposes only by the ways and means permitted to an organization that is formed for educational and scientific purposes within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. The Society shall not engage in any activity which would, under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, preclude its being eligible for tax exemption under the provisions of that Code.

Tenth: Notwithstanding any provision in the foregoing paragraphs which may be construed to the contrary, this organization shall not engage in any activity other than those necessary to carry out its purposes in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and other related sections of the law.

Eleventh: When the Society shall determine to terminate its activities and dissolve the Society, all the assets and property of the Society, without exception, shall be transferred by the Society to an organization to be selected by the Society, whose purposes are the same as or similar to the purposes stated in this Certificate, and whose activities are the same as or similar to the activities authorized by this Certificate, and which has obtained from the Internal Revenue Service of the Government of the United States a ruling, then effective and in good standing, that it is entitled to tax exemption under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 as an organization that is organized and operated exclusively for educational or scientific purposes, or both, and which shall undertake to use such transferred assets and property for such purposes. In no event shall any part of the assets or property of the Society, upon dissolution, be transferred or made available for the benefit of any private individual, firm or corporation.

AMENDMENTS

In Testimony Whereof, we have this 2nd day of November 1960, hereunto set our hands and seals.

H. VAN ZILE HYDE

VICE PRESIDENT

MARION CLAWSON

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

REGULATIONS TO GOVERN NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS

1 Scope

These regulations establish the procedures to be followed to nominate and elect the elective officers of the Society. Section 13 and 17 of the Constitution provide that the elective officers shall be a President, a Vice President, the number of Regional Vice Presidents determined by the Council, and fifteen members of the Council. Five Council members are elected annually, each to serve a three-year term. (The Executive Secretary, the Treasurer, the Editor of the Review, and the General Counsel are appointed by the President with the approval of the Council and serve at the pleasure of the Council.)

2 Nominating Committee

SECTION 20 of the Constitution provides that after each Annual Membership Conference the President shall appoint, with due regard to geographic distribution and the Society's fields of professional interest, a Nominating Committee of not less than five members, and shall designate the chairman. The chairman of the Nominating Committee will submit to the Executive Secretary, for mailing to all members of the Society, a notification of the offices to be filled by election for the ensuing year and an invitation to the members to submit suggestions of names of persons suitable for nomination to those elective offices. The notification will include such information and suggestions as may be appropriate to make possible a set of nominations that will give the Society a broadly representative group of elective officers. On the basis of the suggestions received from the members and any other available information, the Nominating Committee will prepare a slate of candidates for such elective offices. The Committee will make at least one nomination for each elective office to be filled. Before including any nominee in the slate, the Committee will establish his availability and willingness to serve.

3 The Ballot

THE CHAIRMAN of the Nominating Committee will thereafter deliver to the Executive Secretary for mailing to all members a form of ballot listing the offices to be filled and the names of the persons nominated by the Nominating Committee, and including space in which any member may write in the name of another nominee for each elective office; together with a brief biographical statement concerning each nominee named by the Nominating Committee.

4 Election Procedure

THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY will mail ballots, biographical material and any other necessary information and instructions to the members, in sufficient time to make possible the election by mail-ballot of all elective officers prior to the opening of the Annual Membership Conference. The Executive Secretary shall provide a means of voting which will preserve the secrecy of the ballot and assure that only the votes of members are counted. This may be done by providing a return envelope, addressed to the Executive Secretary, which the member may be required to sign on the outside; the member may be instructed to place his marked ballot in a plain, unmarked, and sealable envelope, to be provided by the Executive Secretary, and to place his sealed ballot-envelope within the larger return envelope. The communication to members will inform them of the date by which the marked ballot must be received by the Executive Secretary in order to be valid and counted. The Executive Secretary will deliver all replies received by him to the Nominating Committee. The Committee will verify members' signatures on the outside envelopes against the membership list maintained by the Executive Secretary, will then open the signed envelopes, and place the unmarked, sealed ballot-envelopes in a receptacle. The Committee will thereafter open the envelopes and count all ballots. Any irregularity in the marking of ballots or in their verification and counting by the Nominating Committee shall not invalidate any ballot or the result of the election where the irregularity, in the unanimous judgment of the Nominating Committee and the Executive Secretary, does not raise a substantial question of the eligibility of the ballot to be counted or the intention of the member who marked the ballot. Any ballot or envelope containing an irregularity which is not thus waived by the unanimous decision of the Nominating Committee and the Executive Secretary shall be treated as invalid and not counted.

5 Election Results

SECTIONS 11 AND 21 of the Constitution provide that all members of the Society other than institutional members shall be entitled to vote, and that the nominee receiving the highest number of votes for each office shall be declared elected. The Nominating Committee will certify the results of the election to the Executive Secretary, who will notify the successful candidates of their election and notify other candidates of the results of the election. The Executive Secretary will announce the results of the election at the ensuing Membership Conference and suitably inform all members of the Society.

6 Consolidated Mailing

THE VALIDITY of an election, and of any ballot cast in an election, will not be affected in any way by the enclosure by the Executive Secretary of other mailings to members with ballots and election materials in a consolidated mailing, or by the enclosure by a member of other communications in the signed envelope within which the ballot-envelope is placed.

7 Amendments

THE NOMINATING COMMITTEE and the Executive Secretary shall call to the attention of the Council, from time to time, any changes in the procedures established in these regulations which experience may indicate to be desirable.

TO THE MEMBERS OF SID

THIS BRASS MORTAR AND PESTLE, inscribed HEINRICH TER HORST ME REGIT ANNO 1617, has been a cherished possession of the Hambidge household for almost 40 years. It has the useful characteristic of responding with a friendly but authoritative resonance when the pestle strikes the mortar.

SID does not possess a gavel, either ceremonial or workaday, for the chairman to open, close, and admonish meetings. It occurred to me that this utensil might serve as an effective if unconventional gavel, at the same time adding a little to the gaiety, if any, of nations. Though SID is not a pharmaceutical organization, it may be truly said to compound and dispense prescriptions for some of the world's grave ills, to use the word grave in the sepulchral sense. The symbolism of mortar and pestle, then, seems appropriate.

I therefore present the utensil to the Society for International Development in the name of Dorothy Cooke Hambidge and myself as a Christmas gift. I have chiseled crude letters to that effect on the under side: GH/DCH TO SID 1961-12-25.

The gift is made with one proviso, namely, that in the (unlikely) event of the dissolution of SID, the mortar and pestle be returned to me or my heirs, if that be practicable. Although I am certain it is only a well-fashioned replica and not an original, and hence has no great intrinsic worth, its associations for my family outweigh its monetary value.

May it play an emphatic part in many significant international gatherings!

Grove Hambidge

DESCRIPTIVE NOTE: The mortar and pestle are of solid cast brass and together weigh 10 pounds 9¼ ounces. The mortar is 5¼ inches high, 7½ inches wide at the top, 5½ inches at the bottom; the pestle is 8½ inches long. The mortar is ornamented with the inscription mentioned, in a band of bas-relief lettering (presumably regit, rules, is here equivalent to owns), a narrow band of bas-relief foliage, and a wider band of bas-relief birds and foliage. COUNCIL ACTION: Excerpt from minutes of the 13th Council meeting, 13 December 1961: "It was moved, seconded, and passed: the Society accepts the gift with thanks, will use it as intended, and will return it if the Society ceases to exist."

DIRECTORY OF MEMBERS AND SUBSCRIBERS

How to Use the Directory

As of 1 December 1961

This third directory includes 5 lists, each differently arranged. Repetition of data is minimized to save space and expense. This makes it necessary for the user to refer from one list to another if he wishes to determine what members are in a particular organization or a particular area. This system of cross-references through membership numbers, though admittedly inconvenient, is for the present unavoidable for cost reasons.

LIST I, ALPHABETICAL, gives the serial number, name, and mailing address of each member. Where the address is that of his office, it normally includes also the name of his organization and sometimes his position within the organization; where the address is that of his home, such data are lacking. Institutional members, each paying dues of $100, are designated by a star.

LIST II, NUMERICAL, gives the serial number and name of each member arranged approximately in the order of joining SID (all numbers below 620 and without suffix are original charter members.) A few members have died, a few did not renew membership, and a few have been dropped for nonpayment of dues. The membership numbers of these three groups have been reassigned to new members, with the suffix "a" added. Thus the a-numbers do not represent the order of joining SID. This procedure has the merit of making the last number in the NUMERICAL list the actual present number of members in the Society, except for 24 members that had not yet been re-assigned at the time the directory went to press (145, 326, 330, 335, 336, 352, 360, 410, 436, 457, 474, 503, 507, 524, 526, 529, 532, 543, 554, 571, 607, 796, 1045, 1166.) Institutional members are starred.

LIST III, ORGANIZATIONAL, gives the name of each organization with which one or more members are affiliated and the serial number or numbers of those affiliated with it. To find the names of the members in any particular organization, check these numbers on LIST II, NUMERICAL. To find the addresses of the members concerned, transfer the checks from LIST II to LIST I, ALPHABETICAL. Since the method of designating organizations varies from country to country, and since in many instances the official name is often not the one by which the organization is commonly known, it is difficult to prepare a completely consistent and meaningful alphabetical listing. In general, the official name of the business firm, university, or government agency has been used. For countries other than the USA, the name of the country has usually been added in parentheses if it was not part of the title.

LIST IV, GEOGRAPHICAL, gives the serial numbers of members in a particular country, a particular state in the USA, or, in a few cases, a particular area or city. Members have been classified geographically according to their actual physical location, as far as this was known or could be ascertained, not according to their mailing address. For example, many employees of the Agency for International Development (WSA) are listed in the countries where they are stationed, although they may have US Army Post Office (APO) addresses. It is necessary to check the numbers on LIST III against LIST I and LIST II to obtain more complete information about each member.

LIST V, SUBSCRIBERS, consists of libraries and other institutions that have subscribed to the Review without SID membership. This list is alphabetical only.

NOTE: The University of Michigan became an institutional member of SID as this issue was going to press. We were able to include their name in the list of institutional members given elsewhere under the heading "SID Officers, Council, Chapters" but not in the directory itself.
